

BALL & OTHER funny stories about CANCER

by Brian Lobel

What: a workshop on compassion in caregiving for medical students, residents, physicians and anyone who cares for patients

Where: Harvard Medical School, TMEC room 227, 260 Longwood Avenue, Boston

When: Wednesday, April 9, 2014, 6-7:30 pm

Yum: Light dinner will be served

Mixing monologues about cancer - written over 10 years and from multiple perspectives - with facilitated dialogue and Q&A, BALL & Other Funny Stories About Cancer gives participants a critical, rigorous and thoughtful exploration of the patient experience. At the end of the session, participants will be able to understand the patient experience more fully, be confident to speak with colleagues about how patient narrative affect their personal practice, and be more attentive to the psychosocial aspects of cancer. Brian is an award-winning actor, artist teacher and scholar based in the UK. More info at blobelwarming.com

This program is possible thanks to the generous support from the Committee for the Arts & Humanities @ HMS, the Ackerman Program on Medicine & Culture at Harvard Medical School (and hopefully Gold Foundation for Humanism in Medicine, ThirdSpace: HMS Literary Journal)

